Think Links

5 Chinese New Year Trail

Chinese New Year Trail

Millions of thoughts happen in RAMM every day. Every object tells many stories, and every person who sees them might think something different. Explore RAMM to find objects connected to China.

Search on your own or with your friends or family.

Can you find...

Upstairs

World Cultures gallery (12)
Goldfish are a symbol of abundance and regeneration.

World Cultures gallery (12)
Shou Lao, god of long life, is surrounded by symbols related to longevity.

World Cultures gallery (12)
Bats are a symbol of long life and happiness.

Chinese art is often decorated with symbols with hidden meanings. What do these symbols mean to you?

Finders Keepers? gallery (11)
This money cat pennant would be hung at the end of a bed to attract wealth. Coins are obviously related to wealth and riches.

Finders Keepers? gallery (11)
Butterflies are a sign of happiness.

Finders Keepers? gallery (11)
This punch bowl depicts foreign trade in the southern Chinese city of Guangzhou, also known as Canton.

Finders Keepers? gallery (11)
Two songbirds on a plum or cherry tree are a sign of the new year.

Finders Keepers? gallery (11)
This ancient feng shui compass is for channelling positive energy into homes.

Finders Keepers? gallery (11)
Dragons symbolise strength, goodness and the ability to change into something completely different.

In this series:

Think Links 1
- Go Find Me... Upstairs

Think Links 2
- Go Find Me... Downstairs

Think Links 3
- Ask an Object
- Desert Island
- Telling Tales
- The Wow Factor
- Fact or Fiction?

Think Links 4
- Wildlife Facts

Think Links 5
- Chinese New Year Trail

Exeter City Council

Supported using public funding by ARTS COUNCIL ENGLAND

heritage lottery fund LOTTERY FUNDED

ACCREDITED MUSEUM

www.exeter.gov.uk/ramm

ramm
Home to a million thoughts